

Course TITLE: Speech Communication

Instructor: EDWIN PILAPIL

Title/Position : Dean, College of Arts and Sciences

Institution : Cebu Technological University

Course Overview:

This course introduces the students on the fundamental concepts of communication process, its characteristics and elements, its nature and levels of human communication. The basic principles of communication processes in different aspects as well as the art of speaking are gleaned through the contexts of performing oral and interactive communication situations in the classrooms and other dimensions of public speaking. This also puts premium on the scientific accounting of the English speech sounds and symbols. The system of English phonemes is particularly highlighted in the study and the production of the segmental phonemes (vowels, diphthongs, and consonants) and the suprasegmental phonemes (stress, pitch, intonation, and juncture).
